JOHN W. DAVIS believes that eight States will go to La Follette, and that he will get the South, of course, including the usual plurality in Tennessee.

All politicians, if they tell what they really think, say that Davis' remaining hope is to have the election thrown into the House. It may go there. La Follette's power and following are generally underestimated. In the East, Republican enthusiasts say that La Follette will carry only North Dakota and Wisconsin. Others admit that he has a fairly good chance in at least four other States.

Nine out of ten well informed politicians predict that Coolidge will be elected, and the bets of 6 to 1 that have been made on Coolidge indicate that there are FACTS back of the bets. Such odds are made, as a rule, only on reliable figures.

UNCLE JOE CANNON says the nation's horse sense will reject Coolidge. Apart from his own satisfactory "early American" character, the name of Secretary Mellon should get more votes for Coolidge among "horse sense" people than any other. If Mr. Coolidge is elected, Mr. Mellon, presumably, will remain as Secretary of the Treasury, and continue paying off the United States debt, retiring bonds, reducing taxes.

Mr. Mellon has given to the people the ability and earnest hard work of one of the ablest business men in the United States. The people, if they can, ought to retain his services, at least until he has paid off a few more of the billions of debt that our Democratic friends, with the best of intentions, played up so cheerfully in the war days.

MANY CITIZENS, in voting for Coolidge for President, will realize with satisfaction that they are also voting for Mr. Mellon for Secretary of the Treasury.

THE "FULL DINNER PAUL" is old fashioned. "The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks," etc., say they don't care so much about white collars for themselves, but they must have silk stockings for their wives.

President E. R. Fitzgerald says that women feel inferior when not well dressed, and every workman's wife should have three pairs of silk stockings a year. So she should, and the railroads will probably arrange it, rather than have a strike.

You can get very good silk stockings for $2 a pair (see advertisement in this newspaper), so that that would only amount to an increase of two cents a day in wages.

The interesting thing is that the workmen are now worrying about their wives' happiness, rather than about themselves. That's spiritual progress.

HALDANE, learned British professor of biology, who predilect food production on a scale not dreamed of, believes that in a few years sugar will be as cheap as sawdust. Don't be in too much of a hurry to sell your sugar stock, however.

NATURE'S old-fashioned methods are creditable.

Pennsylvania State College announces the champion litter of eleven pigs, six months old, weighing 3,461 pounds. The mother of this little family is entitled to some kind of a monument. In six months she adds nearly two tons of pork to the world's food supply, and is doubtless busy with a brand new litter by this time. The name of the pig lady, a "pure-bred sow," is Persephone Girl. Humble and plain, she's more important than the proud animal in the next paragraph.

WOMEN IN RUSH TO SEE MRS. RISTEEN

Salem, Oct. 21.—Women stormed District Court today in an effort to see Mrs. Marion A. Risteen and George W. Plummer, Jr., of Beverly, charged with the murder of the woman's husband, Fred A. Risteen.

Before 8 o'clock there were about 100 women outside the courthouse, and when the doors were opened it was necessary to station policemen to keep them back.

Eighteen women obtained seats in the court, being twice as many as the men spectators. Usually there are no women at District Court hearings.

From the courtroom, the women looked into the yard in the rear of police headquarters. It was into this yard the prisoners were taken on their way from Salem jail.

Mrs. Risteen kept her head low and did not show during the ten minutes she was in court, did she raise her eyes.

Ohio Plant Plans Dirigible Twice Size of ZR-3

Akron, O., Oct. 21 (U.S.S.).—The Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation has started a design for a Zeppelin twice the size of the ZR-3, according to P. W. Littlefield, vice-president.

The dirigible will cost about $3,000,000, equipped for ocean voyages. By November 1, Dr. Karl Arnstein, Chief of Design for the German Zeppelin Works, will arrive in Akron with twelve assistants and start the plans which will call for a Zeppelin of 5,000,000 cubic feet.

'L' TIE-UP WORST IN HISTORY

Hundreds of Thousands Were Forced to Hike or Ride in Other Vehicles to Work

The business of Greater Boston was practically at a standstill for three hours today, at a cost of thousands of dollars, as a result of the breakdown of the entire power system of the Boston Elevated.

Thousands of thousands of people, who were usually so much at ease, were forced to hike or ride in other vehicles to work.

The street cars, which were equipped with emergency power, were permitted to enter subways and terminal points and pay fares while the system was being repaired.

Apparently few of the company's employees knew what had happened. No effort was made to turn away patrons at the terminals.

At a point a great many persons had ten cents and the morning of the breakdown, made their way to the street and walked. Some of the thousands of people who were stranded, struggling in the rain, were of business.

STREETS CONGESTED
The congestion of street cars and the thousands of people who were stranded, struggling in the rain, were of business.

Investigation by Inspector L. H. Veltan of the State Department of Public Utilities revealed that the trouble started at 8 a. m., although not till 10 a. m. service had been restored.

At 8 o'clock, according to the report, the power was cut off entirely. The trouble was caused by a short circuit in the water line to the boiler at the South Boston plant, but no explosion was feared because the boiler was equipped with fusible plugs.

TRIP HOME TOO COSTLY: COOLIDGE TO MAIL VOTE

Washington, Oct. 21.—Although President Coolidge has not decided definitely whether or not to go to New York to make an active campaign, despite the assurance of a letter that he would be arrested if he crossed the border, there is much anxiety as to what will happen if he defies the government, assuming that he appears in the country it is expected he will insist that he be given either a pass, and that, if he ignores this, he will be arrested.

at a loss for some time to find the trouble source.

Specifically, the powerhouse was unable to generate sufficient power to feed the heavy traffic. The "glue" was weak and the entire system halted right where it was—and stayed there.

The bright spot in the story was that the automobile drivers who crowded the streets with thousands of cars and trucks, and who were riding with strange men, stood in the streets and almost began to be taken a hand.

Girls who never, under ordinary circumstances, would dream of riding with strange men, stood in the streets and almost began to be taken a hand.

MEN TAKE TO TRUCKS.

It mattered not whether the vehicle was a truck or limousine. They all piled into the motorized elevated platform. Most of the truck passengers, however, were men, who had gladly given preference to the elevated platform over the street cars.

In Boston, drivers for the City-owned Public Car Co., in a strange mood, saw the scene in the elevated cars and took the opportunity to make a few remarks to the passengers, but, finding to take payment for the service.

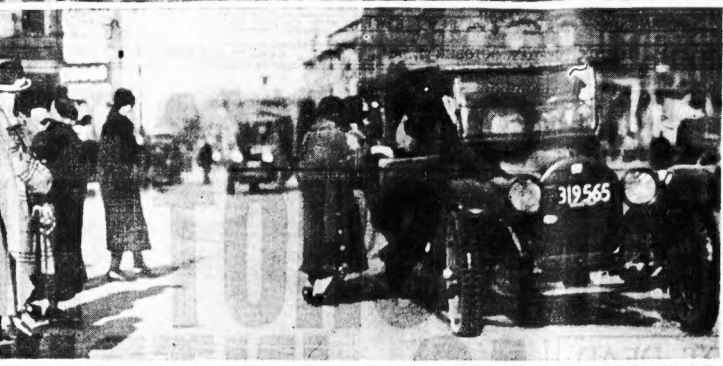

Tons of men and women, however, were unable to secure rides, and had to be almost ruthlessly turned away from the waiting cars.

They advanced on the city in wild mobs, filling the streets and jamming the sidewalks, and with the tops of elevated cars resting on the shoulders of the people.

Even Mrs. E. B. Mullin, who explains everything to the public for the elevated, had a good excuse for her tardiness in reaching headquarters today.

MYSTERY AS TO CAUSE.

She turned in the elevated's own trouble bulletin as her excuse. The trouble was finally traced in the square station of the South Boston power house, but even after service had resumed normally, the specific cause had not been discovered.

The trip was general throughout the system, but was of the sporadic variety. One circuit would start moving for a time, then would stop, while another circuit kept going, only to go dead in turn for a third one.

ALL LINES JAMMED.

This halted for two hours and a half, full service being resumed at 5:30 when the legwork commenced.

already had reached their places of employment.

Tambling was jammed and surface lines were jammed with passengers when the power laid down and died. This made the trip the worst in the history of the elevated.

When it became evident that the service wasn't coming but had laid down for "kicks" or its equivalent, the passengers were released to roam the West Boston section.

Passengers led out of trains stalled on the West Boston section, and they way back to Cambridge, carefully adding the third rail, all though it is doubtful if it will be sufficient "joke" even to shock them.

Terminating at Park street, Sullivan square, Everett, South Station, Union square, Dudley street, Forest Hills and College square, took on the appearance of a run on the bank with in a few minutes after the trouble developed.

TELEPHONES SWAMPED

Telephones in public pay stations, in apartment houses and in suburban dwellings were swamped with business and the telephone company requested a harvest through the elevated.

Marionette riders anxious to notify home or office of their predicament, found up two and three days before the trouble to drop their cables.

At the height of the confusion, the elevated hurriedly called to add 300 additional employees, in an attempt to "shoot" the trouble and in person whatever other good offices that might relieve the confusion.

FIKE ON "L" STILL HERE.

In the midst of the trip a fire broke out in the cables on the elevated structure opposite No. 127 Atlantic avenue.

Trains slowed down and the fire flames from the burning insulation, giving the weary passengers a large light. At 6:15 alarm brought Ladder 8 and Engine 25, whose crews extinguished the blaze with the current shut off entirely for forty minutes.

INTRUDER SLAIN IN SOMERVILLE DOORWAY

his clothing, on certain articles of which the name was stamped. The young man is believed to have relatives in Somerville.

In the meantime, McGuire, a World War veteran, was arraigned in Somerville district court on a charge of manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and Judge Brewster held him in $1,000 for a hearing next Monday. Bonds were furnished.

The police say that Feltows was seen in Somerville about 9 o'clock last night. When he appeared at the McGuire home he was in civilian clothing.

The shooting of Feltows, according to McGuire, was accidental. According to his story he intended to club the intruder over the head with the heavy butt of the revolver, but in his excitement he struck the youth on the head with the muzzle of the weapon, this causing the revolver to explode, the ball passing through his head.

SLEPT IN FRONT ROOM

McGuire is a travelling salesman, a native of Boston, who has lived in Somerville for the past five years. A week ago his wife's sister, Mrs. George Feltows, arrived from her home in Elizabeth, N. J., in a front room.

Mrs. Feltows slept in a room near the McGuire apartment house on the ground floor of the dwelling.

About 9 o'clock Feltows was working about one of the windows in his bedroom, the window looking out on the front porch. Feltows drew keys from his pocket. Briefly he looked at the keys and then he went to the next room and called by "buddy-in-law" Mr. Feltows.

As soon as he was aroused, while waiting to get out of the room, McGuire saw the intruder, who kept in a bureau drawer, and started for the front door.

It was the man bending over, fumbling with a key in the lock of the door, McGuire told the police.

CO-OPERATION CLUB TO STAGE MINSTREL SHOW

Warblers among the young men of Boston's business world will probably be heard in a minstrel show before the Winter is over in plans of the Young Men's Co-operation Club of Boston, so through as scheduled.

This week the organization formed a minstrel club which they hope will number fifty singers. Herbert Strasser of the National Pattern Company was elected president and Edmund P. Mann of the First National Bank secretary. Meetings of the club will be held every Monday evening in the rest room of Chandler's restaurant.

DEMANDS PROTECTION FOR HOLYOKE POWER CO.

Former Mayor Nathan Avery of Holyoke, counsel for the Holyoke Water Power Company, today on the Federal circuit court in Boston, demanded $100,000 additional capital stock at hearing before the State Department of Public Utilities.

Avery asserted the Turners Fall company needs to invade the territory of the Holyoke company, which is selling power to the Holyoke Street Railway Company, and the granting of the petition would place in jeopardy the latter's investment of $7,000,000.

FULL SUPPLY OF HELIUM MANUFACTURED FOR 2R-3

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 21.—The last of the helium for the 2R-3 will leave here by the end of October. It was announced today by Lieutenant Hicks, in command of the local plant. The first cars of the twenty-four necessary to fill the big dirigible left yesterday when it was expected to leave here by the end of the month.

SIAMESE GIRL CASTS ASIDE TRADITIONS

Pretty Student at Simmons College Will Attend a Dance With Boy Escort

Chamong Yeravadya is about to violate a precedent.

No, Anantasia, Chamong is not a troubadour.

On the contrary, she is a charming little Siamese girl, a student at Simmons College, and is known to her intimates as Chummy.

Despite the fact that she is very democratic at present, Chummy is the sister of a princess, and was reared along rigidly conventional lines.

QUITE INDEPENDENT.
Therefore when she announced she is about to violate a precedent, any one familiar with conditions in Siam is likely to sit up and assume a startled expression.

All of which concerns Chummy not so much as a girl, or worse to that effect, she having absorbed considerable independence since her arrival in this country.

To be brief, or as brief as is public under prevailing space rates in this newspaper, Chummy is about

This Is Miss Siam

CHAMONG YERAVADYA

Simmons College student boast of having "in their midst" one of the prettiest Siamese girls in any American college. "Chummy," by the way, is the sister of a real princess, this is specializing in public health nursing.

To make her first appearance at a "public dance" with a man.

She is going to the Simmons "Mix" Show with a countryman, no less than the son of Siam's premier, who is a junior at Northeastern University.

STUDYING NURSING.
Chummy is a freshman at Simmons, having taken up Public Health Nursing, with the idea of rendering practical assistance to her people when she returns to Siam. Her father is a physician and a general in the army at the same time. She is expected to be a physician or dentist but found it would take six years.

Her sister is the Princess Prajapitok, whose husband is second brother of King Rama VI. The couple are now on their way back to Siam after visiting Chummy.

KING TUT CURSE DESCENDS ON U. S. LAWYER

New Orleans Judge, Arbitrator in Howard Carter Suit, Loses Leg in Cairo

Out of the tomb of King Tut, more bad luck has come; this time, the victim is Judge Pierre Chabries of New Orleans.

Judge Chabries arrived in Boston today on the Dollar liner President Monroe.

When he was appointed international arbitrator of the lawsuit of Howard Carter against the Egyptian government, he had two sturdy legs, and as iron constitution.

Now he has one leg, and he is not so sturdy. Whether the red hand of the Egyptian khedive extended beyond the grave to touch with misfortune the persons concerned with the disturbance of his final resting place, the fact remains that the evil fortune has pursued them.

Judge Chabries completed his hearings on Carter's claims against the present government of Egypt some weeks ago.

He started home. On the streets of Cairo, he was knocked down by a moving carriage, hurled under the wheels of a street car, and lost a limb.

Japs All 'Hot Up' Over Nick Carter and Mary Pickford

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 21.—Nick Carter novels, prohibition, Mary Pickford and jass are among the elements of Oriental life which the Japanese have wholeheartedly embraced, according to Robert A. Woods, head of South End House, Boston, who addressed the Recreation Congress in session today.

"There is no word for team play in the Chinese language," said Mr. Woods. "The great need of the nation is the development of the team play spirit and its reflection in every phase of national life. Leading Chinese educators are looking towards recreation to fill this need."

"Chinese boys generally wish to end a baseball game after five innings because of deficient stamina."

Ingers on Carter's claims against the present government of Egypt some weeks ago.

4 QUESTIONED IN NEW YORK JEWEL THEFT

Police Hope to Throw Light on Keenan, Lawson and Bobb Cases

New York, Oct. 21.—Four men under arrest were questioned today in connection with the robbery of the West side apartment of Mrs. Helen Heyworth, fiancée of "Dapper Don" Collins, international notorious thief.

A platinum, diamond-cluster ring, containing one stolen from Mrs. Heyworth was found in possession of the four prisoners, who were arrested for another holdup and later suspected of having been involved in the Heyworth robbery.

From their questioning of the prisoners the police also hoped to throw light on the case of Dorothy Keenan, Lawson and Bobb.

The four prisoners were arrested after a bullet-riddled automobile was

Cheers From 6,000 for 'Deutschland Uber Alles' at Theatre

New York, Oct. 21.—An audience of 6,000 persons cheered the playing of "Deutschland Uber Alles" at a theatre where the officers and crew of the ZR-3 were guests of the management. There was no trace of unfriendliness when Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the giant dirigible on her transatlantic flight, made a speech in German.

Dr. Eckener asked permission to speak in German. There was no protest. He told the crowd that all misunderstanding between Germany and America was a thing of the past.

found in a garage in West Third street.

The prisoners described themselves as Louis Fabian of Manhattan, and Abraham Graw, Jacob Kiviat and Saul Kiviat, all of Brooklyn.

The diamond-cluster ring was found in the possession of Fabian. Mrs. Heyworth after the robbery, as reported, suddenly left the apartment in an automobile listed in the name of Mrs. Gerald Dempsey, daughter of former Justice Morgan (Tilden). Dempsey is described as a retired broker and lives at Hempstead, Long Island.

Purely Personal

When a letter comes to you, with "purely personal" on the envelope, you know that it contains something so intimate that it is for your eyes alone. There is published today for you and your family a magazine built on facts so intimate and so confidential that each reader's copy might be marked "Purely Personal."

It is a magazine in which worth while men and women with names important in the world's affairs, tell with intimate frankness, under their own names...not in interviews, not under nom de plumes, not behind the cloak of anonymity, but under their own names...the lessons they learned from life. It is the one magazine of its kind in the world. In the issue on sale today there is, for instance:

- The Story of a Man Who Became Good Friends With His Wife
If you meet a girl in the afternoon, become engaged that evening, and marry within the month there is little time for getting acquainted. Burton Rascoe, noted literary critic, tells how, with nothing in common except the passion of first love, his wife and he pulled together when they might have pulled apart.
- A Philosopher's Revelations of the Petting Parties of His Youth
Some people seem to think petting parties are a recent invention of the present younger generation. Ed Howe, the Kansas philosopher, who is 71 years young, shows only two changes in them from the customs of his own youth when young lovers wrapped the reins around the whip and let the horse jog on.
- A Reporter's Story of Her Day With the Most Powerful Woman in Europe
Mabel Porter Daggett met Queen Marie in Paris while the gentlemen of the Peace Conference were settling the fate of Europe. In "A Woman Who Gets Her Own Way" she tells of this beautiful queen whose mappings are not military but millinery, who gets what she wants for her beloved Roumania with the wave of her feathered fan.
- A Man at 80, With a Son of 9, Tells How to Live to a Ripe Old Age
In six simple words Dr. Harvey W. Wiley gives his formula for vigorous old age in an article telling how in the age of eighty he manages to combine the work of a farmer and of a magazine editor.
- A Great Journalist Tells How He Grew Up to a Job Too Big for Him
Sir Philip Gibbs tells how, when a jobless youth, he dared to play the part of a living encyclopedia for a few newspapers. He got away with it. His message is "Don't be afraid to tackle a job that's too big for you."
- A Recipe for Success by a Man Whose Relatives Made Him Succeed
Charles G. Norris refused to be known just as "Karlhen's Husband," and wrote three novels, "Sally," "Brenda," and "Dread." He says almost anyone can become a novelist if you follow the method he outlines.

A magazine with these features alone would be a magazine so distinctive as to demand a place in your life even though your table be crowded with publications. But it is a magazine which in addition has more unusual fiction than any all fiction magazine you read. For example:

- Frenchy: The Lightly Told Love Story of an Underdog
Vernette Rex Beach gives you humor in an Alaskan setting in the short story of Marcel, a d'Anagnan of the white-broom who became a cave man.
- A Devil Among the Women, a Short Story by George Weston
There's a little of Mr. Bingham in every woman's husband. It's the masculine desire to parade that so often makes trouble—unless the Mrs. Bingham understands.
- A Novel of High Hearts and Open Trails, by James Oliver Curwood
The story of a boy and a dog and a courageous man who fought their way to happiness in the north woods in spite of the most powerful croak in Canada.

These four short stories are featured from an issue that contains the latest from the pen of the master of English, Rudyard Kipling, because they are so distinctive. In this magazine Kipling, Norman Hapgood, Irvin Cobb, Ray Long, and others equally noted, are regular features. Kipling this month writes on love, Hapgood on women, Cobb on bores, Long on narrow minds. Then there are two new writers...Dale Collins and Noah Webster Neall...with worth while stories to tell. In fact, that's this magazine from cover to cover...worth while stories by worth while writers for worth while readers. Are you one of the last named?

TAGGING FAILS; MOTORISTS TO GO TO COURT

No More Courteous Talks to Violators, Boston Police Announce

Captain Herbert Goodwin is fed up with gentle methods in dealing with violators of automobile traffic regulations at night.

He announced today that on any motorist who is tagged at night once or more will go into court.

There will be no more courteous talks and copies of regulations passed out.

Persons who park their cars in the theatre district and other parts of downtown would do well, therefore, to observe the regulations carefully.

Captain Goodwin said many of the motorists and profited by the tags given them on first offense, but that there is a certain percentage who believe in taking a gambler's chance and are tagged again and again.

"While the 'skipper' of the La Grange street station is the first to speak out, it is known that captains of other divisions feel much the same way he does."

SHE SANG, 'WHO'S THE LADY,' AND FOUND OUT

ACTRESS ACCUSES EDITH KELLY

Above—Shirley Kellogg, the actress, who has been granted a divorce from her husband, Albert de Courville, London theatrical manager, according to advice from the English capital. She named Edith Kelly Gould, former wife of Frank J. Gould, as co-respondent. On the stage Shirley used to sing "Who's the Lady?"

Bar, South Boston, at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Those to go under the hammer are part of a fund of thirty-nine hold there for two months.

CHICOPEE GIRL BANDIT SENT TO INSTITUTION

Chicopee, Oct. 21.—Clara Jank, sixteen, with a record for larceny, was sent to a correctional institution today after police had found what they called a complete set of burglar's tools hidden in a room in her home. The girl denied recent breaks for which the police hold her responsible. She was on probation at the time of her latest arrest.

LAWYER IS FINED $10 FOR HIS SYMPATHY

Lawrence, Oct. 21.—John C. Tenney, a lawyer, was "fined" for his sympathy because it found his client, a lawyer, guilty of keeping liquor in his home. "That's not your business," said Judge Wilbur C. Board, finding him guilty of contempt of court. And it did. Tenney was given six months in jail and it took.

FIND MISSING GIRL'S CLOTHES IN CELLAR

New York, Oct. 21.—The theory that a fifteen-year-old girl, Julia Manning, Brooklyn High school girl, has been strangled and her body hidden, was considered by police today following the discovery in the cellar of the missing girl's house at No. 31 Division avenue, of all her clothes except her silk stockings.

DANISH EXPLORER LOSES TOES IN ARCTIC

Aberdeen, Scotland, Oct. 21 (U.N.).—Pilot Freuchen, Danish Arctic explorer, arrived here today aboard the schooner Idkong after three years in the Arctic, lost, near death from freezing and given up for dead by his government.

When found, Freuchen's toes were frozen off, his food was exhausted and he and his four Eskimo comrades were keeping alive by hunting seals and walrus.

GODDESS GIRL WRITES FINIS TO ROMANCE

London, Oct. 21.—"Who's the lady?"

That was the song Shirley Kellogg of Broadway once sang so entrancingly.

The British courts answered: "Edith Kelly Gould."

Yes, Shirley Kellogg, "the girl with the golden figure," has divorced Albert Pierre de Courville, London theatrical producer.

Shirley named the young Edith as co-respondent, and there was no denial.

All of which means that Edith Kelly Gould, once the wife of Frank J. Gould, has kicked scandalously kicked Shirley Kellogg from the arms of her "so dear Albert."

WAS A DANCING PONY.

All Broadway remembers the hectic incidents in the lives of Edith and Frank J. of Shirley and Albert.

It was some years ago when Shirley Kellogg turned her back on the mid-West and became a dancing pony in "Miss Innocence."

Diamond Jim Brady—ban vivants and great ex-cuse—admired Shirley. It was even reported that they would marry.

After a few months she disappeared and was next seen dancing "Hullo, Tango!" There was when she sang:

"Who's the lady?"

HAPPY FOR YEARS.

In Courville married her in 1918. Much happiness and two babies following.

But, in a misguided moment, De Courville brought his production "Pins and Needles" to New York. The play also landed Edith Kelly Gould along as star.

Shirley was left at home to care for the babies. "Pins and Needles" failed. Back to London went De Courville and Edith.

There was gossip. De Courville tried to still it by taking Shirley and the youngsters to the Côte d'Azur. And Edith told London.

BANDITS HOLD UP NEW YORK ELEVATED STATION

New York, Oct. 21.—Two bandits today held up the agent of the Sixth avenue elevated railway station at Thirty-third street, took $550 fares and escaped by running down the tracks to avoid two policemen on the street beyond the station.

Beating away from the robbers, the agent, William Berg, dashed to the floor with a blow on the jaw to prevent him from pursuing them.

Colonel Goodale in Vermont

Northfield, Vt., Oct. 21.—Colonel G. B. Goodale of the First Corps Area, with headquarters at South Boston, today inspected the R. O. C. units at Norwich University.

He praised the students for their interest. He will inspect the R. O. C. at the University of Vermont.

ATO SPEEDERS SEE CRIPPLES HOSPITAL

Ordered to Visit Children's Home and Fix Their Own Fines

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Judge Philip Finnegan gave several motorists arrested for exceeding the twenty mile-an-hour speed limit the opportunity of deciding how much they owed the city for violating one of its laws.

Judge Finnegan picked nine drivers, most of them young fellows, for his experiment. Lining them up, he declared:

"My speeders, there are in this state 30,000 crippled children, a big majority of whom are in Chicago. A large percentage of these would be ambling about, playing ball, skipping rope and doing the things that are the inherent right of every child if you and men of your kind under-stand a change of heart. Spend, spend, always spend."

"I want all of you men to go to the Home for Crippled Children with my bailiff, and I want you to walk through and notice the condition of drivers who are in two big hurry to cure just the result of my own attitude, your superior attitude. You will see these little fellows patiently paying for the sin of speeding, spending money."

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Barbo Compound Makes One Look Twenty Years Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the style by darkening their gray hair with a simple home remedy. For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well known Chicagoan, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple remedy in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy, just take a half-ounce of water, add some of my cream, a small pinch of Barbo Compound, a tea-spoonful of olive oil, and mix thoroughly. Rub the hair twice weekly with comb, and the hair will be dark and glossy, and gray will not rub off."

No 'Fortissimo' Needed This Week on the Hunter's Horn at Myopia Assemblage

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE SCARLET-COATED riders who ordinarily follow the Myopia hounds make up a good sized though not an overwhelmingly large group. And I emphasize the "ordinarily."

For this Thursday's drag hunt at the Myopia Hunt Club is not to be an "ordinary" event at all. On that day a very widely-paragraphed young gentleman will join these North Shore hunters in their spirited dash over hill and dale, alone wall and fence, to keep up with the swift-footed canines hot on the scent of the animal trail.

Three guesses as to the identity of the gentleman in question.

WHICH ACCOUNTS for the fact that on Thursday the number of folk answering the hunter's horn at Myopia may be just a mere, mere trifles larger than usual.

If I may whisper the words—they do say that several members of the fair sex—not generally so keen about riding—have tried on their habits and as they should.

Why the riding tops don't make Mollie Layton every bit as snappy as the lady in the smart periodicals, well, they say that the shops devoted to riding toggery have been doing quite a business these past two weeks.

SPRINGING OF THE North Shore—sports lovers all along that stretch of shoreline attended the week-end hunt Saturday at "Willow Dale," the Bradley Palmer estate in Hamilton which is very near the Myopia Hunt Club.

The winner of the greatly coveted National Hunt Cup was "Bills," owned by Sherman L. Dewey of Detroit, with Allen C. F. H. up and ridden by Gordon Prince, was second.

Rayard Taylorman, Jr., who is playing host to the Prince, not only captured the Turner Hill Cup with his "McFall," and won second place in the Myopia Challenge race with "Bourbon Gold," also from his stables, but also rode "Blue Laddie," owned by Major James W. Angell, M. F. H., at Myopia, the winner of the Willoughby Cup.

Alvin "C. B." Sorrell was the rider of Mrs. George S. Burroughs' "Impetuous," winner of the Myopia Challenge race.

THERE SEEMS a great possibility that the British embassy will again make its Summer headquarters at Priests' Cottage.

They made rather a long season of it on the shore, not returning to Washington until a fortnight ago.

This season Ambassador Howard and Lady Feabel with their interesting family occupied the better cottage at Priests' Cottage.

Society Notes

Lars Anderson has concluded his college at Yale. Sunday afternoon and returned to Washington where he will be joined by Mrs. Anderson, who has been in Boston for some time.

Mrs. and Mrs. George Eddy Warren are back in Boston after a sojourn at their summer home in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Gertrude Sampson of Boston and Tuxedo Park gave a tea the other afternoon at the Tuxedo Club. Among her hosts were Messrs. Charles A. and Alexander J. Murray Mitchell, Howard and Mrs. Sanderford and Henry W. Murray.

Mrs. George Winthrop Folson will entertain throughout November at "Sunnydale," her Lenox country place.

The British ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard gave their first dinner party of the season in Washington on Saturday. The affair was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Dawson, the former editor-in-chief of the London Times.

The Under Secretary of State, and Mrs. Joseph Grew, will continue to make their home at the California Coast, it was announced last April, the counting and hotel funds will "light" for control of the California Coast, it was announced by Admiral Robert E. Pepto-Mangan, its rich iron and manganese content is the sure way to rebuild the power of run-down bodies.

Your druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid or tablet form.

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being sick. I was tired out and I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women. I thought I would try it. I have taken it and I cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do not feel any more tired and I have no more headache or nervous feelings. I love every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have. I am Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have been doing good."

CIVILIZATION SEEN IN DANGER BY BISHOP

Presenting a picture of the highest disaster to civilization, growing out of the deterioration of society by the World War, Bishop William F. Anderson, recently appointed to the Boston area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, addressed about 400 men and women last night at the Boston Convention Center in Fred Hall, at a reception given in his honor.

The spirit of cooperation and of mutual helpfulness, as found in the principles of Christianity, the speaker believed was the only means of preventing the collapse of civilization.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH! GOOD ACTING

Lionel Barrymore Admirably Interprets Difficult Role at Tremont

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

WHATEVER may be the nature of the future photography that opened a week's run at the Fenway Theatre last evening.

Miss Daniels' emotional acting in her latest release is by far the best work she has done on the screen in years. She certainly has able support in Mr. Moore.

There is just the proper touch of romance to the picture to make it extremely interesting to discriminating theatergoers. Tom Moore in the role of lover covers himself with glory. The photography of the production is nothing short of spectacular. The various minor roles in the picture are well played.

The Fenway management is also presenting this week film, "The Way of the West" by the Fenway management. It is a material, while a prologue, with ballet, makes the program one of real entertainment.

The entire program is extremely long and most carefully arranged in order to please the capacity audience. "Dangerous Money," as a big time picture, certainly has established itself in photoplay circles in Boston.

MAY EDISSOES IN COPLEY PLAY

For several years past there has been a strong suspicion in the minds of Boston theatergoers that the May Edissos of the Copley Theatre Company was fitted to play the star role in the Repertory productions.

Their growing belief was borne out last night when Miss Edissos scored a distinct triumph in the main role of "What Every Woman Knows," a farce about a first made famous in this country by Made Adeline.

Miss Edissos, after her portrayal of Miss Wylie, the little wife from which the piece takes the name, has apparently been graduated with such honors from the Copley Theatre as to be considered a star.

The entire supporting company measures up to the high standard set by Miss Edissos. Hugh C. Burke has played up the part of the political leader, brought the needed strength of character to the part.

The second evening of the Copley Players under Mr. Edissos' direction promises a writer of real versatility to meet from this group of the Edissos.

Continuing Shows

HOLLIS—Cyril Maude in "Aren't We All?" Smart comedy. COLONIAL—Fred Stone in "Repentance," a screen adaptation of Galt's "Debutante," featuring Monte Blue and Florence Prevost. It is the story of a famous French actor, who is deserted by his wife after he has fallen in love with a beautiful girl whose name he does not know. Later, she leaves him for another man and he returns to his stage. He comes back to him on condition that he again become a famous actor. On the night he has fallen in love with his career is blasted. It is a story of extraordinary triangle but the manner in which it is handled is somewhat startling to the American mind. An international news reel also included in the program.

FITZGERALD'S DRAWING CARD AS OF OLD

"Barbara Frietchie" Again Thrills Public at Modern and Beacon Theatres

Real room, society and problem plays come and go, but that the American theatre-going public still like the shows of twenty years ago was evident by the crowd that attended "Barbara Frietchie" at the Modern and Beacon Theatres last night.

Florence Vio played the pensive but loving Barbara of Clyde Fitch's play, which has been a hit since it was first produced. The film sparkles with brilliant action and tense situations. Dramatic historical scenes, such as the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack in Hampton Roads, are skillfully woven into the action.

"The Lover of Camille" was the second feature of both theatre programs. This film, a screen adaptation of Galt's "Debutante," features Monte Blue and Florence Prevost. It is the story of a famous French actor, who is deserted by his wife after he has fallen in love with a beautiful girl whose name he does not know. Later, she leaves him for another man and he returns to his stage. He comes back to him on condition that he again become a famous actor. On the night he has fallen in love with his career is blasted. It is a story of extraordinary triangle but the manner in which it is handled is somewhat startling to the American mind. SMITH HITS QUALITY OF ROOSEVELT'S TALKS
 Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Referring to the remarks of Theodore Roosevelt, his opponent, that after a week or so of campaigning the colonel's voice was 40 per cent better, Governor Smith said:
 "Well, mine's worse. The difference is that I made a speech."
 "It's hard to campaign if you can't have an argument," he added. "It's hard to pick out something new to tell the people every night. Two years ago I was contending with a man (Governor Miller, who said some thing and who gave me an opportunity to debate with him."

LA FOLLETTE TO CONTEST SEATS IF 'BOUGHT'

Warns G. O. P. of Lavish Cash Expenditures in Western States

Aboard La Follette Special En Route to Rock Island, Ill. Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—If evidence before the Borah committee shows the Republican party has spent money lavishly in the West to elect its candidates for Congress, the seats of the new Republican Senators and Representatives will be contested by the Progressives.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, Independent Presidential candidate, issued this warning to Republican party managers today as he entered Illinois for a short speaking campaign. La Follette will deliver an address in Rock Island tonight and in Peoria tomorrow.

Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the Progressives before the Borah Committee, has already shown, La Follette declared, that Republican funds raised in the Eastern States, are to be used in doubtful Western territory.

"All of these Western States have corrupt practices here," La Follette continued, "and about it develop that this money is being used in unlawful amounts in these Western States, the rights of Senators and Congressmen to their seats will be questioned in the next Congress."

COOLIDGE ADDRESS THURSDAY ON RADIO
 Washington, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—President Coolidge's last important speech of the Presidential campaign will be delivered here Thursday (24th). It was announced at the White House. The President will speak at the dedication of the new headquarters of the United States Chamber of Commerce. The address will be broadcast by radio.

Franks Will Leave Trust Fund to Combat Any Move for Release of Slayers
 Chicago, Oct. 21.—Prison cells and the drab uniform of convicts for Loeb and Leopold all their lives. Jacob Franks, father of the boy whom the two had slain for a thrill, today disclosed that he was making plans for the creation of a trust fund which would be used after his death for the blessing of any plans to secure the freedom of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb.

"Mrs. Franks did not want them to hang," Mr. Franks said, in discussing his plans. "And for that reason I did not take an active part in their trial as I would have otherwise. But the murderers must never gain freedom."

"A lenient Governor, a shrewd lawyer, an indifferent people—and freedom for them would be a matter of but a few years."
 "I don't know how long I am going to live. During my life-time I shall fight every move that might be made to defend justice."
 "And I am going to create a trust fund so that after my death defense shall continue to meet the demands of anyone trying to free Loeb and Leopold."

DAVIS PLEDGE 'SAFE AND SANE' BUSINESS

No Threat or Menace to Industry, He Says as He Enters Solid South

Aboard Davis Special En Route to Louisville, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—Pledging the Democratic party to a "safe and sane" program toward American business, John W. Davis drove his presidential campaign into the political arena of Kentucky today.

As his train sped across the Tennessee line, Davis left behind him a definite promise to business interests that his administration of the nation's affairs would be based on a policy of "safe, sound, progressive business."

His party's program, he said, carried no threat or menace whatsoever to business property.

The candidate faced a series of repeated speeches in the Blue Grass country today and a night address in Louisville, confident that he would win Tennessee in November by a landslide victory. His brief dash into the solid South was old to State leaders, insured him an overwhelming vote there.

There was but one unusual incident on his Southern trip—the unexpected action of Davis in sending Corbitt Hall, former national chairman and a Tennessee Congressman, on a hurried and mysterious trip to Washington. The departure of Hall led to speculation of a possible shakeup in the management of the Democratic national campaign.

BUTLER RAPS COMBINE OF DAVIS AND 3D PARTY
 Chicago, Oct. 21.—Chairman of the National Committee of the Republican National Committee today issued a statement attacking what he termed a combination on the part of the Democrats and Independents to force the presidential election into Congress.

The statement said in part: "Take Minnesota, for example. Mr. J. M. Land for many years the leader of the Democratic party in that state, and then Governor of the state, and later United States Senator, has been a special envoy to Mexico under Democratic administration, has been on for the third party committee. In that same state two Democratic men entirely from the congressional races."

110 Held in Club Raid
 New York, Oct. 21.—Police surrounded the Oak Democratic Club in Bay Street street, between Broadway and Fifth avenue, and arrested 110 persons on charges of disorderly conduct.

6 DIE IN BLAST ON CRUISER TRENTON

Two New England Men Killed as Terrific Explosion Hits Crew

It was so terrific that men were knocked down in various parts of the ship.

The cause of the accident, which occurred while a gun crew in the forward turret was preparing to fire a six-inch shell, has not as yet been determined. The charge for the gun was being hoisted and the usual precautions were observed when the explosion took place.

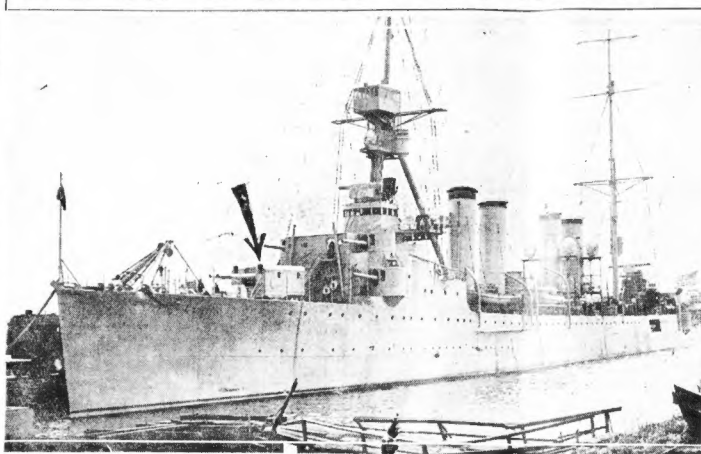

A similar catastrophe is said to have been narrowly averted aboard the Cruiser Concord, a sister ship of the Trenton, last Friday as she was engaged in target practice. In that instance, it is said, a short circuited wire was at fault.

The Trenton called the Hampton Roads Naval Base for a fast launch to meet her as she would reach Oct. 21 and take the injured men to the naval hospital at Portsmouth.

A naval court of inquiry will be held immediately.

The Trenton, which returned from her shakedown trip to the Mediterranean, a few weeks ago, brought back the body of Vice Consul Robert W. Ingle, slain by a mob of religious fanatics in Tcheran, Persia. She was en route from

The resulting fire and sent to Bridge (by observation there on Monday, Oct. 14) to participate in the Navy's. The Trenton, her forward turret and deck battered and blackened, is lying at the Hampton Roads Naval Base pending the naval inquiry. She is a vessel of 7,500 tons, carries ten six-inch guns and a crew of approximately 400.

Crew of Wrecked Ship Rescued in Hurricane

New Orleans, Oct. 21.—A message received here from Captain Robert F. Laid of the steamship Atlantis of the Vrearo Brothers Line, which arrived in La Caba after having safely passed through the gulf hurricane, stated that the crew of the storm-battered vessel, James Timpani of New York, had been taken from the steamship in the Caribbean Sea off the coast of Belize.

The Atlantis, the message stated, after having encountered a sixty-mile gale in the Caribbean sea, sighted the Timpani being tossed about helplessly in the storm. Captain Laid said his vessel stood by for sometime and then lowered boats and picked up the crew of the New York steamer.

The message did not state how many members of the crew were taken aboard or what was the fate of the Timpani.

FIRST NATIONAL OPPOSES NEW DORCHESTER BANK

Officers of the First National Bank today at a hearing before the board of bank examiners opposed the formation of several projects of branches located by Raymond P. Perkins, for a charter for the Perkins Corner Trust Company. According to the petitioners, it is intended to operate the proposed institution for $250,000, mostly business men in the district having sufficient means of advertising for stock. Two branches of the First National Bank in Dorchester, representing an investment of $250,000 in buildings and equipment, now serve the district adequately, Edward E. Blodgett, director and controller of the First National, said.

SUMMER CAMPERS URGED TO REMOVE ALL VALUABLES

Summer campers, abandoning their property for the winter months, are warned by Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred P. Foss to remove all valuables and to see that the buildings are securely fastened.

While the State conservator has been instructed to make regular inspections of the camps, the commissioner said, it is obviously impossible to guard against marauders at every camp at all hours.

He reminded the property owners that thieves who make a business of robbing camps require but a few hours to work.

DISMISSES PETITION FOR WHITIN CONSERVATOR

Worcester, Oct. 21.—The full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court today affirmed the decision of Judge Frank J. M. Chamberlain in Probate Court here in dismissing the petition brought by Attorney M. T. Flaherty who sought to have a conservator appointed over the affairs of Arthur F. Whitin, wealthy Whitinsville mill owner. The Supreme Court decision was returned to the clerk of court here.

CORRUPT, SHE SAYS

ADA FEINBERG
R. U. girl law student brings charges of graft against the city fathers of Chelsea. This afternoon, however, refuse to make reply to the accusations of the Portia-to-be.

Members of the Chelsea board of aldermen were shocked, almost beyond measure, when a slip of a girl, Ada Chelsea, Portia, appeared before their august body and openly accused seven members of the board of having been "grafted" and "cheated".

The young Portia who made the charge is Miss Ada Feinberg, a Boston University law student, of No. 156 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea.

"Give Children a Chance," Judge Zottoli Advises

GOOD HOME MAKES BOY A SUCCESS

Jurist Who Came Here as Immigrant Says Family
Teamwork Wins

By GRACE DeCHAMPS
"It isn't the game nor amount,
Nor funds that you can get,
But the everlasting team work
That makes you win the day"

If you had ten children and ten dollars a week—you'd get the point.

Especially if you couldn't speak English and had just adopted an other language, by way of Latin bragadoles.

And precisely to that, if you had left a comfortable cotter in sunny Italy in a buff, just because the government wouldn't let Garibaldi alone.

St. Ignace? You'd get the point. But that team work stuff means the same in Italian as it does in English.

Ask Joseph T. Zottoli—Judge Zottoli. If you please—It doesn't.

When Governor Cox needed a distinguished man of law to take the

FROM IMMIGRANT TO JUDGESHIP

"We've builded together," said Judge Zottoli, happily, as he took the news of his appointment to a judgeship in the Municipal Court to his wife and two children. He is one of the ten children of Anthony Zottoli, a Garibaldi veteran, who earned $18 a week when he came here as an immigrant.

Everett Wanderers,
Headed for West,
Halt in Lawrence

Lawrence, Oct. 21.—Out in the west open spaces, where the West begins, there is a place for Cliff and Barney Boyles.

But for the present Cliff and Barney will continue to live in the city and across the river at the "Club" at No. 25 Third Avenue.

They started out on their adventure, one of them alone and the other with him. That was on October 15.

They were heard later today. Cliff, the older, was riding a bicycle. The younger brother was riding a car, attached to the bike. They were heard for the first time since they left the city.

And when they have to work as they go west, they will not have a chance. They will not have a chance. They will not have a chance.

Judge Zottoli is married and lives with his wife and two children at 126 North Street. He is a native of Italy and came to this country in 1890.

He served with distinction in the Italian army during the war. He has been a practicing attorney for twenty years.

MRS. HALE'S DAINITY SHIP BLUE MOON TO BE SOLD

Buzzard's Bay, Oct. 21.—The dainty literary light who had looked forward to a twenty-day cruise around the world aboard the luxurious schooner yacht, Blue Moon, as the guests of Charles Garland's mother, Mrs. Marie Tilden Garland Hale, will have to travel by the motor this winter.

Because of the schooner's age and the fact that the schooner was not in good condition, the Hale family has decided to sell the yacht and purchase a motor yacht.

The Blue Moon was built in 1890 and has been in the Hale family ever since. It is a beautiful schooner and has been used for many years.

RADIO ENJOYS GROWTH IN ENGLAND

Listening to American Station Given as Cause for Interest

The interest in radio in England is growing rapidly. It is now estimated that there are over 100,000 radio sets in use in the British Isles. This is a remarkable increase in a country where the population is only about 40,000,000.

The reason for this rapid growth is the fact that many Englishmen are now listening to American radio stations. This is particularly true of the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) and the American Broadcasting Company (ABC). These stations are popular in England because of the high quality of their programming and the fact that they broadcast in English.

NORA LEE

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper
Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His disolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his one-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his house with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Then she taught school until her health gave out. Andrew gave them a home of their own. Nora at 17 began to go to dances with her school friends. She meets Diane Herrick.

BUT she kept her head down. "Well, you can go now, I don't want to be selfish—but I'll never, never forget how kind you were."

He burst out laughing. "Sad part of it is, Nora Lee, I can't go!"

The crowd had gathered—the boys were pushing their friends. It was 10 o'clock. They were going down town.

"I don't care," said Nora Lee, "I'm not going to let any of these fellows push me around."

"Nora Lee, let her go," said Margaret. "She's not worth the trouble."

FINANCE

LOW PRICES SEEN FOR 1925

By B. C. Forbes

In the day coming when workers will own enough stock to give them control of the corporations employing them?

Progress is being made in this direction.

Some capitalists corporation heads reason that wages will not continue to be sufficient to insure the loyalty of workmen. They see profit sharing, in some form or other, as the coming system.

Stock ownership by wage earners is the natural next step in the evolution. Some corporations have bonus plans which do not reach down to the ordinary workers, but reward the more important employees.

Charles M. Schwab has always been an ardent believer in paying out moderate bonus salaries and giving his executives and others in authority opportunities to own through bonus or profit sharing. What he is actually doing is to give them an opportunity to own the company. I have heard that Mr. Schwab's plan is to pay nobody more than $10,000 a year in dividends.

The United States steel corporation also has a system for rewarding high-ups by means of bonus in addition to paying normal salaries.

General Motors has long been famous for its compensation plan. It is giving all its men of managerial rank to superior for managers.

Our biggest financial institution has also favored a somewhat similar plan.

How to reach rank-and-file workers has been a problem. The Steel Corporation was among the first of our large enterprises to offer profit sharing to its rank-and-file workers. The plan has been successful. It has shown that it is possible to give the rank-and-file worker a share in the profits of the company.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company, perhaps the largest employer in the world, has been making special efforts to attract employees as stockholders. One of the American corporations have a plan which is similar to the one which the Steel Corporation has.

Other large organizations of various kinds likewise have made headway during recent years in extending their ownership plans to workers.

There are many thousands of modern men on their way to and from Cape Cod and South Shore resorts during the summer months.

After the necessary feeding of equipment, between two and three weeks from now, the plan will be ready to deliver credit to the company's stockholders.

358 Senators and Representatives

They Listened in Washington to All the Arguments WE Are Hearing About the Child Labor Amendment—and Then They Voted "Yes"—Lodge and Walsh Among Them

Every one of the arguments now being used in Massachusetts against the ratification of the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution was used in Washington when the question of submitting this amendment to the Legislatures of the several States was before the Congress.

Every one of them; that it would give Congress too much power, that it was breaking down the authority of the States, that the age limit is too high, all the others.

Now, as you were reminded yesterday, no proposed amendment to the Constitution can be SUBMITTED to the States except by a two-thirds vote of both Houses of Congress.

And what was the vote on submitting THIS amendment? In the Senate, 61 to 23. In the House, 297 to 69.

They heard all the arguments, the Senators and the Representatives in Congress did, and then THEY voted, by these tremendous majorities, to submit the question to the Legislatures.

Why didn't they kill the proposition? WOULDN'T they have done so, if it was the "Red menace" we now are told it is?

WOULDN'T they have done so, if it was a blow at the American home and at the American form of government? You KNOW they would.

There were they, the elected representatives of the people of the United States, the most lawyers and many of them distinguished lawyers—Henry Cabot Lodge and David I. Walsh among them—and yet THEY could not see this amendment as a bill to annex the United States to Soviet Russia.

Nobody else can see it, but there are men going up and down the State of Massachusetts who would like to make YOU see it, or at least make you THINK you see it.

WHY, do you suppose, is such a rumpus being made over this amendment in MASSACHUSETTS at this time?

Because in this State the Legislature has referred the question to the PEOPLE.

Forty-two State Legislatures are to meet in 1925. Most of them will consider the ratification or rejection of the Child Labor Amendment.

The National Manufacturers' Association, and other opponents of the amendment, want to be able to send their attorneys before committees of all these Legislatures to say: "Well, you see what Massachusetts did. Intelligent State, Massachusetts, intelligent people up there, and THEY voted 'No.'"

We are in for a battle, friends of the children, and on the eve of conflict we suddenly have been deserted by some whom we have looked upon as our leaders.

Let each do his part, regardless. Remember that the amendment you are about to vote upon, Referendum No. 7, is NOT a law. It will give Congress power to PASS laws with reference to child labor.

It does NOT prohibit children from working on their home farms.

It does NOT interfere with girls helping their mothers with the housework or with boys helping their fathers with the chores.

The two child labor acts which Congress enacted when Congress thought it had the power referred only to employment in mines and quarries, mills, factories, workshops and manufacturing establishments.

Study the facts. Satisfy yourself that the case is as the Boston American presents it. But do your own thinking. Listen to the orators, learn to detect and cast aside the bunk and the propaganda, and remember your childhood.

Hercules, Wake Up

Your Record is in Danger

John W. Davis, conducting a most earnest campaign, says that he elected his "end privilege" and will "WIFE OUT corruption in two years." That's a fine program, one to fill with jealousy, even Hercules, son of Jupiter.

While still in the cradle he strangled two great serpents sent to destroy him, and as a young man he chose as his guide virtue instead of pleasure. That wasn't easy in those days. He choked to death the Nemean lion, cut all the heads off the hydra, although two new ones grew when one was cut off, and he cleaned in one day the well-known stables of King Augeas by turning two rivers into them.

But Hercules never CHANGED HUMAN NATURE. All of his "stunts" were child's play compared to Mr. Davis' program. If Mr. Davis is to end corruption, what's to become of some of Mr. Davis' former clients?

Religion Is Necessary

Especially Among Wahibis

The Wahibi tribesmen, savage Mohammedans, pouring in from the desert, have occupied the Holy City of Mecca. Beholding the magnificent carpet covering the black stone on which Mohammed stood when he flew up to heaven on his white horse Alborak, the desert fighters knelt in awe. They didn't even murder the inhabitants, which they would do ordinarily. Religion is necessary among savage people, even when it IS Mohammedan.

The Chinese inhabitants of Canton are not as fortunate as the Mohammedans in Mecca. Sun Yat-sen's troops, having taken Canton, set fire to the city in various places. Many were burned alive. Possibly if the Cantonese had some stone from which Confucius once went up to heaven or on which he sat down to think things wouldn't have been so bad.

You can't appeal to a barbarian on kindness, but from his superstitions you get a response anyway.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

IT is vanity that makes the world go round. Once, we thought it was love, but that love has become almost as rare as buffalo and buckwheat cake and almost as antique as the Minotaur, the world seems to be spinning faster than ever.

A man's idea of a "heavenly time" is to sit beside an open fire, sipping his favorite beverage, and listening to a pretty woman telling him how wonderful she is.

A girl's idea of a "heavenly time" is to sit in a canoe, under full moon, and listen to a good-looking man telling her how wonderful she is.

Let the girl be telling the man how many grains of plume she put up, or the man be telling the girl how he made that great score in golf, and the whole thing would be a dud.

Every friend is a looking glass, through whose eyes we see ourselves. We always like the flattering ones best.

An honest opinion may be good for the soul, but it is as hard to swallow as a stone.

A man may plead with a girl to be "perfectly frank" with him, but the first time she remarks, "You are a fool," but you look like a human being in golf knickers, and a handsome fellow in a tuxedo suit," she will send him off alone, in a cool, cold way.

A girl may implore a man to tell her the "real truth," but just as she is about to tell him that she is fat or plain, or that she is not as good as she looks, she will send him off alone, in a cool, cold way.

You may rub a man of exasperation, but his suspicions about himself, and he will be able to get along in the world and be happy.

You may strike at a woman's heart, her faith, and even her dignity, and she may still love you, but one blow at her vanity will lay her out cold and stiff in his little garage.

Vanity is what inspires most of our virtues, and all of our shame, accomplishments, and achievements.

Vanity is two-thirds of love, three-quarters of ambition, and at least fifty per cent. of aspiration.

Take away a man's vanity, and there will be much left—take away a woman's vanity, and there will be nothing left.

Oh yes, and vanity that makes the world go round.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

I KNOW one garden's bowers where in a graceful row above the smiling flowers the sturdy poplars grow. The low green hedge encloses a wealth of bud and bloom, and Summer's fairest roses drip honey-sweet perfume. For time and space expended upon that garden, through sunny hours fond make it a happy spot. The rain, how fountain playing where sun and shadow pass, its grateful grace spraying upon the emerald grass the tiny slender lances, the poppy's scarlet dress, the daffodil's gay daisies, all breathe their sweetness.

Family in Great Need

Editor Helping Hand: There are six children in our family, the oldest of which is a cripple and cannot work. My father has been out of work for a long time and it is hard enough to get food, so that clothes are impossible.

There are three girls, 16, 14 and 3 years old, and three boys, 11, 8 and 4 years old. My father is badly in need of an overcoat. And please, if you can, send some warm stockings for my mother, as she is not long out of the hospital and unable to walk because of an operation.

MARGARET J.

Needs Furniture

Editor Helping Hand: I am greatly in need of a kitchen stove, a few chairs and a bed. My husband is out of work and we have five children and a sickly baby, so it is impossible to get these things. There might be some kind reader who has these things and would be glad to give them to someone who needs them. I would certainly appreciate them.

MRS. M. D. Z.

Clothes for Twins

Editor Helping Hand: I have two daughters and would like to give their outgrown clothes to another pair of twins, aged eight or nine years.

MRS. K.

Children Want Books

Editor Helping Hand: I would be very grateful to anyone for a Bible or some books of knowledge or encyclopaedia that he or she might have. I thought there might be some kind reader who would be glad to give them to someone who needs them.

MRS. E. W.

Expects Seventh Child

Editor Helping Hand: I am the mother of six children and expect another in a month. I have no clothing for the new comer, and I now only working two or three days a week, which hardly keeps the children in food.

My two girls, 15 and 12 years old, and four boys, 11, 8 and 4 years old. One of my boys is quite sick. Anything will be gladly accepted.

FAITH FOUNDATION UNDER DISCUSSION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE has been a good deal of discussion recently, especially in England, on the foundation of faith.

Some people seem to think that the progress of science has taken away some of the supports of their faith. One by one superstitions and gratuitous imaginings have had to be given up. It is supposed that faith rests upon these. As a matter of fact, faith is merely the projection of our mind from what we do know into what we do not know. The realm of what we do not know is always infinite; while the realm of what we do know is finite.

No matter how far out we push the boundaries of science, of exact knowledge, it must always reveal to the candid mind how great is the extent of what we do not know.

Carlyle speaks of the great sea of nonsense, on which all our science floats as a mere superficial film.

A good analogy is, this earth and the rest of the planets. Naturally our experience cannot extend beyond the earth and yet we know that all around us are the infinite heavens. What the heavens are to the earth so is the volume of what we do not know to what we know.

Instead of the progress of science undermining the foundations of faith, it is establishing them.

The proof of the origin of the universe by some divine power, and the proof of the existence of that power at the present time, does not consist of fairy stories but it is found in the limitations of our wisdom.

As our knowledge will always have limits, so our faith, which goes beyond those limits, must always have something to rest upon.

When David wrote: "When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers, what is Man that Thou art mindful of him?" His knowledge of the heavens was considerably less than ours, but the intelligent scientist of today regards, with just as much awe, the surrounding universe because of his more exact knowledge of what he does know.

BEE FLIGHT AND MAN FLIGHT

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

NOT long ago, while strolling in a meadow, I saw a big-bodied humble-bee rise from a flower, on its humming little wings, and sail off in a swift curve to another leaf of wild flowers, which drew the winged freckle on an Alder tree in the green grass.

And as I watched I wondered. It struck me with sudden amazement to see so relatively huge a bulk driven so swiftly. How, I asked myself, could it be possible for such a bulky creature to move so fast? I thought of the human body, so ponderous, comparatively, they are not large as those whose graceful figure rises from the shoulders of narrow people in European cathedrals. And I thought, indeed, that it might have been familiar with the humble creature as the humbler of the insect world, that I had not noticed its extraordinary speed.

Then, as I listened to the musical hum of the bees, I thought of the human body, so ponderous, comparatively, they are not large as those whose graceful figure rises from the shoulders of narrow people in European cathedrals. And I thought, indeed, that it might have been familiar with the humble creature as the humbler of the insect world, that I had not noticed its extraordinary speed.
